MANUAL OF COORDINATES

Fourth Edition

Maryland Department of State Planning

INTRODUCTION

The Manual of Coordinates embodies a simplified method for locating over 12,000 places within the State. It is the fourth edition of the original publication first printed in 1947; the second and third editions were published in 1962 and 1969, respectively. The ever-present elements of population growth and accompanying physical developments within the State necessitated this current updating. The updated manual reflects a changing Maryland as characterized by population migrations, intensive housing developments, industrial growth and recreational development. In addition to these latest developments, recognized historical architecture and landmarks and those places recently established, as such, are included. Through the use of automated data processing equipment, the manual was compiled and printed in a form convenient for field use. The fourth edition, which includes updated existing material on place names, railroad stations and housing subdivisions, has maintained the basic concept and format of identification with political subdivisions from the third edition while incorporating several new features to enhance its practical utility. Two new sections were added, licensed general hospitals and airports and airfields, each with an alphabetical listing location and classification identifier.

In the absence of an officially updated U.S. Census of Population, the list of incorporated and unincorporated places in Maryland with the 1970 census population is included.

A copy of the Maryland Highway Map issued by the State Highway Administration is an indispensible second component of this manual for locating a place name and planning a journey to it. Locating the place name can be conveniently accomplished with the grid system used in the manual and defined on the following page.

THE MARYLAND COORDINATE SYSTEM

The Maryland Coordinate Grid System is the method used to identify a place name numerically and locate it on a map of the State. The grid coordinate system of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey was adopted for the State of Maryland by authority of Chapter 628 of the Acts of the Maryland General Assembly of 1939. This system, known as the Maryland Coordinate System, has been utilized in the preparation of the manual.

The principle of this system is similar to that used for locating a point on the surface of the earth by longitude and latitude, but in practice is simpler. In the Maryland Coordinate System, a point is designated by actual distances in feet from two imaginary lines, one running east and west, and the other north and south through the point of origin. The origin of the Maryland Coordinate System has been fixed at a point southwest of the State, to have all coordinates to the east and north of it. The coordinates of this point is 0-0. Horizontal and vertical grid lines were established from this point at intervals of 50,000 feet, bearing due east and due north of the origin.

Two numbers define each place in the alphabetical listing contained in the manual. The first number designates the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies east of the point of origin, and the second, the distance in thousands of feet that the place lies north of the point of origin.

The coordinates are given only to the nearest thousand feet, which is adequate for purposes of identification on the Highway Map. As an illustration of the use of plane coordinates, we will locate the U.S. Naval Academy. From the listing of place names in this manual, the coordinates of the U.S. Naval Academy are known to be 949-418. Then refer to the Map of Maryland on the next page with a coordinate grid system superimposed. Plotting the coordinates taken from the listing, we locate the Naval Academy at a distance of approximately 949,000 feet to the east and approximately 418,000 feet to the north of the point of origin.

Should it be necessary to establish the location of a place name that falls between any two grid lines on a map, proceed by scaling or gauging the distance from the lowest numbered coordinate line. If the place name is not shown on the map, it can be readily located by scaling from the nearest grid line. Other maps can be used by superimposing a similar grid on any map of Maryland. Referenced to the same point of origin, it then becomes possible to define any place shown on the map or to find any place on the map if its coordinates are known.

GENERAL ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF PLACES

The fourth edition of the manual continues the format of listing cities, towns, and known place names used in previous publications. In order to make it as accurate, complete, and current as possible, the material in the former manual was reviewed thoroughly. Known names of places no longer existing were removed or identified for historical reference, and grammatical and spelling errors were corrected, superfluous data deleted and names of new places obtained by scanning the most recent maps were added. Where place names have changed, the former name was retained and identified with a double asterisk (). Place names no longer in existence are recorded for historical documentation and preceded with three mathematical addition signs (+++) for identification. The appearance of the word Elevation following a place name indicates a known place of substantially higher altitude than contiguous areas, i.e., the top of a mountain or the highest local terrain in the coastal plain.

For the first time, the General Alphabetical listing of places identifies and locates hospitals and interstate interchanges. Furthermore, these two groups, together with airports, open space areas, historical architecture and landmarks and housing subdivisions, are listed separately in the appendix. The ownership of public open space and recreational areas are identified by the use of such words as State and National in the name, or the abbreviation CNTY following the place name to indicate county ownership. Municipal recreational areas are recognized by their absence of word identifiers. Historical place names are classified as to public, semi-public, business office or private, indicating their availability to sightseers, and these words appear in the printed form with the place name. The premises of any place name classified as business or private is not open to tourists, visitors, or the general public, while districts, public and semi-public places may have restrictions that must be observed.

ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF PLACES BY COUNTY

The listing of places by county provides a means for locating places within specified counties and Baltimore City. It offers an alternative to the General Alphabetical Listing of Places by its intensive concentration of place names related to one political jurisdiction within the State.

Here, as in the preface to the General Alphabetical Listing of Place Names, symbols, words or an abbreviation are utilized as identifiers with different connotations. See the preface to the General Alphabtical Listing of Places for specific meanings to identifiers used herein.

APPENDIX

HISTORICAL ARCHITECTURE AND LANDMARKS

Listed in this section of the appendix are existing historical architectural facilities and historical landmarks of places, buildings or sites of exceptional interest that represent the State's cultural heritage over the years. Included in this list for the first time are recognized archaelogical sites and historic districts.

The list was prepared by the Maryland Historical Trust as inventory nominations from the State of Maryland to the National Register of Historic Places for national acceptance and recognition The national register of Historic Places is a publication administered by the Office of Archaelogy and Historical Preservation, a division of the National Parks Service. The National Register was created under the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, Public Law 89-665.

The listed architecture and landmarks represent public or private ownership with utilization of the facility or site ranging from public to private. All listings are classified as sites (archaelogical), districts, public, semi-public, business office or private regarding their availability to sightseers, and those words appear in the printed form immediately after the place name. The premises of any listed place name classified as business or private is not open to the general public, whereas sites, districts public and semi-public places may have restrictions that must be adhered to.

HOUSING SUBDIVISIONS AND NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Nothing has changed the Maryland topography more in recent years than the increasing number of housing and "new town" developments dotting the State's landscape. This development reflects the continuous population increases from 1960 to 1977 in most subdivisions of the State. Because of the permanent nature of these new additions to the housing stock and the high rate of population increase associated with it, the inclusion of the housing subdivision and development listings are continued for purposes of convenience and ready reference.

ACCESS TO TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS BY MODE

This index lists public access points to major modes of the State's transportation system.

Included under separate heading in the manual for the first time, the air transportation inventory identifies airfields, airparks and airports by county and State grid coordinates. Because of the increased usage of air travel for emergency-medical, as well as for personal services, the ability to quickly identify and locate these places has become essential.

RAILROAD STATIONS

The railroad, once a proud symbol and a vital key in the development of the American economy, remains in a state of adjustment with other modes of transportation. In contrast to other physical developments in the State, the number of railroads operating and the number of railroad stations open have continued to decline. The previous edition of the manual lists 5 individual railroads with 357 stations and stops, of which 39 are listed as passenger stops. This updated fourth edition of 1978 lists 4 individual railroads with 39 railroad stations or stops of which 27 are listed as passenger stops. Thus, since the 1969 manual, 318 stations and stops have been discontinued. Passenger stops can be identified by the abbreviation PSGR following the station name.

INTERSTATE INTERCHANGES

The listing which follows is intended to provide the user with a convenient means of locating points of access to the national interstate highway system. Reading from left to right, the first column indicates the interstate route number; the second contains the route number of the road or highway with which the interchange connects; the next two columns indicate the county and coordinates of the interchange, respectively.

PUBLIC OPEN SPACE AND RECREATION AREAS

The federal, State, county and municipal open spaces and recreation areas in Maryland are tabulated by place name (irrespective of size or popularity) in the aggregated alphabetical and by-county listings preceding the appendix. For the user's convenience, federal and State open space and recreation listings are also included in this index as well as county and municipal open spaces of 10 or more acres. The abbreviations FMA, NEA, NRMA, NWA and WMA are open space type descriptors indicating Fish Management Areas, Natural Environment Areas, Natural Resource Management Areas, Natural Wildlife Areas and Wildlife Management Areas, respectively. Two of the aforementioned levels of government ownership for the areas are identified with the words National and State appearing in the name. National refers to areas owned and maintained by the United States government, whereas the word State refers to the State of Maryland. County areas are identified by the abbreviation CNTY appended to the place name. Local open space and recreation areas can be identified by the absence of the words National and State or abbreviation CNTY in the place name.

1970 POPULATION:
INCORPORATED AND UNINCORPORATED PLACES

This list of statistical data taken from the 1970 U.S. Census of Population includes 256 incorporated, unincorporated, and designated places in Maryland. These total 95 more incorporated and 42 more unincorporated places than listed in the 1950 and 1960 Censuses, respectively. The figures range from a low of 6 for Highland Beach in Anne Arundel County to 903,540 for Baltimore City.

Since population statistics for the 1980 census of population are not available at this time, an indication of Maryland's population trend can be derived from the most recent Bureau of Census' estimates for the State, specifically that of July 1, 1976, which estimates a 5.6 percent increase over 1970 or 220,103 more than the 3,923,897 figure recorded in 1970.

The preparation of this document was financed in part through a comprehensive planning grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development as administered by the Maryland Department of State Planning.

Computer time for the processing of the data in this manual is supported in part through the facilities of the Computer Science Center of the University of Maryland.

This 1978 Maryland Manual of Coordinates has been prepared as accurately and completely as possible from available sources.

In the event of omission or misspelling of place names, the Department of State Planning will welcome additional place names with locations and corrections to improve the next edition of the Manual of Coordinates.
